Our three little pot bellied pigs would love to say wee, wee, wee and go all the way home! We have 3 stray pot bellied pigs that were found in Lovettsville yesterday. If you know someone missing their pigs, please send them our way! In the meantime, these guys will be snacking and sunning while they wait for their owners. 703-777-0406 www.loudoun.gov/animals

Susan Kirkbride Kris Batar, know any pig peeps?

Like · Reply · March 18 at 10:21am

Batar Kris Awww they are chunky monkeys....lol. I don't know anyone in that area.

Once the weather gets nice those stinkers start breaking free...hopefully they have a nice home waiting for them.

Susan Kirkbride I was hoping you were part of a pig fan club that would know where they live. LOL!

Fred George III Where Fast Eddies used to be Henry. Tom and I and about 10 others blocked one lane with it at a red light. What fun it was to watch all the hullabaloo. Just another good story for my book.

Kelly Parks Wagner Those are some big pigs! I was thinking they were perhaps smaller in stature! Hope they get home or get a new home!!

Nina Stively They look bigger than they are in person. These guys are barely knee-high.

Julia Falke What size are they?

Nina Stively They are about knee-high. The vet will come out and give them a good look over this week and give us a full summary for prospective adopters.

Julia Falke OK

Chris St John Have their owners been found? Still at the shelter?

Nina Stively They are still here at the shelter, no owners have come forth yet.

Brian Davidson Are these from The Truth Behind Ayrshire Farm?

Loudoun County Animal Services Hi Brian Davidson, these pigs were reported to us as strays in Lovettsville. We have had them since 3/17 and no owner has come forward. We are still on the lookout for an owner, but if they are not reclaimed as of April 8th, we will officially be able to adopt them out to a new home.
